On the Screen

SCENE FROM "THE SILENT VALLEY."

THAT love can heal all wounds and turn a man's nature, dominate over beastly instincts and finally return a lost soul to the path of goodness is the theme and treatment of "The Silent Valley," in which King Baggot appears. The great, powerful good that lies dormant within this giant of a man for so many years is finally brought to light by a sweet and pretty face of a little girl who visits this backwoods neighborhood with a traveling company.

In a way it was all Mrs. McGuff's fault. McGuff wanted to buy an auto with the $2,000 he had made as the result of a lucky speculation. His better half, longing for the delights of rural life, decided upon a farm. Thus it came about that McGuff came within an ace of losing his money altogether. The incidents which brought this about make "Easy Money" unusually funny.

Imagine a charming little woman, dainty and unassuming, acting down in the center of a lumber camp filled with rough and ready men with no idea of law and order and a habit of settling their difficulties with their fists. Now picture the trouble and opposition this tiny mite of femininity would encounter in attempting to enforce laws for their better government, and you will have some idea of "The Mistress of Deadwood Basin."

Bob and Jack, two lieutenants, are introduced by their colonel to a popular young girl, Miss Bamberg, in "Uninvited." Bob makes a hit. The Bambergs give a ball, to which Bob is invited but Jack is not. At the ball Bob proposes and is accepted. Jack, although not invited, attends the ball. The treatment he receives there, however, is not of the best, and he is forced to leave, finally realizing that he is out of the running.

JOHN E. BRENNAN.

John E. Brennan is a comedian. His picture shows that. And he is able to make others laugh as heartily as he does himself.

George Hall is the author of "The Man Who Is Misunderstood," a two-reel drama that is under production with King Baggot in the lead. George Lessey is directing this picture.

Sent to get the story of an invention which promises to revolutionize the automobile industry. Wilson, a reporter for a metropolitan daily, saves the inventor from being victimized by his villainous secretary. How this comes about fills the drama, "The Cul Reporter's Assignment," with much interest.

Former Manager of the Palmetto Sells Interests After a Short But Successful Stay Here

A. M. Pinkston, who came here from Washington, Ga., less than a year ago, to engage in the moving picture show business, closed out his ownership in the Palmetto theatre Monday and will retire. It is stated that he received around $7,000 for his business. Mr. Pinkston has gingered up the "movie" business since coming to Anderson and although he appears to have made quite a success, yet he has always given his patrons the best that he could get. His competition here, the Bijou and the Electric, also have given very fine entertainment this summer. Mr. Pinkston will remain here several days assisting the new management in taking hold of the Palmetto, which has, under the able management of its former manager, Mr. Pinkston, grown to be one of the most popular theatres in the state. The seating capacity of the theatre, being far too small to accommodate the large audiences daily.

LOCAL THEATRE HAS BEEN SOLD

Georgia Men Have Purchased Local Theatre for Consideration of $7,000

A deal was closed yesterday by which the Palmetto theatre was sold to C. Brown and M. R. Ivie, the consideration being $7,000. The new proprietors of the place have arrived in the city and yesterday they were in charge. In talking last night to a reporter for The Intelligencer, Mr. Ivie said that he and his partner expect to conduct the place along the same lines as heretofore and that the best pictures obtainable and the best vaudeville to be secured will be exhibited at the Palmetto.

Both Mr. Ivie and Mr. Brown have had previous experience in the theatre business and they say that they are confident of making a success in this city. They were well pleased last night when their home was sold out early in the evening and there was hardly standing room within the building. The new proprietors come from Cornelia, Ga.

MARKET REPORT

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 21.—Beyond an official report from the conference committee that 600 bales of the straddle interest had been liquidated as a result of Saturday's operations in Liverpool, there appeared to be no change in the cotton situation here today. The more favorable view of prospects for an early resumption of business was again encouraged, however, by reports of continued steadiness in the Southern markets, and while picking is supposed to be making rapid progress under prevailing weather conditions, the comparatively small receipts suggest that the planters are holding for a further advance. Official announcements are expected in the near future regarding the proposed syndicate plan for adjusting the remaining contract interest and the formation of by-laws to provide for trading in government contracts.

Money on Call

New York, Sept. 21.—Mercantile paper 7. Exchange $184,790,034; balance $12,167,940. Sterling exchange steady; for cable 496; for demand 495. Bar silver 51 1-2.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

New Orleans, Sept. 21.—A cotton contract, framed under the rules of the New Orleans cotton exchange, is a binding obligation and must be fulfilled in spite of the situation caused by the European war and the close of the exchange. This, in effect, was the ruling by the attorneys for the exchange made public today. A considerable volume of commitments still exists in October options and as that month has drawn near interest has increased in the respective rights of the exchange and sellers in those contracts. The board of directors of the exchange today decided to reopen the spot market on Wednesday.

Cotton Seed Oil

New York, Sept. 21.—Cotton seed oil was firm for actual stuff, owing to the absence of tenders and inquiry from the north of Europe, while the futures were easy, fall positions making new low records for the season under scattered liquidation and lack of outside demand. September closed 7 points higher and other months 6 to 9 points net lower. Sales 3,100 barrels. The market closed weak. Spot $5.70 a $5.90.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Notwithstanding a decided setback, at one time, the wheat market today average higher, influenced by notable falling off in receipts northwest. Closing prices were steady at 1-4 to 3-4 net advance. Corn finished 1-8 a 1-4 to 1-4 a 3-8 net advance.

STOCKS AND BONDS

New York, Sept. 21.—In the absence of more definite developments, Wall Street discussed with much gratification today the decision of the interstate commerce commission to reopen the five per cent advance freight rate case and the approval by the federal reserve board of the $100,000,000 gold fund. The Western money position continues strong, but railway traffic is on the decline, a condition wholly attributed to the European crisis. Expansion of enterprises is being checked purposely by bankers, who are impressing the necessity of rate curbs in all lines of business. On the surface the local money market shows an easier tendency, but rate still hold at 8 per cent.
